WILSON NOT SURE HE WILL ASK CONGRESS TO DECLARE STATE OF WAR WITH GERMANY

Still Has Open Mind in the Matter and is Considering Three Courses.

OPINION IS STILL DIVIDED

Officials Are Almost Unanimous in Conviction That State of War Must Be Declared; Senator Mitchell
Says War Is for Conservative Action

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 27.—President Wilson was represented today as still having an open mind on exactly what steps he will recommend to Congress when it meets in special session next week, although the preponderance of official opinion is that he should ask for a declaration that a state of war exists between the United States and Germany.

Prior to a Cabinet meeting at which the details of preparedness measures were discussed, Senator Mitchell, member of the Senate foreign relations committee, discussed the situation with the President. Afterward he outlined the following three courses which he believed open to Congress:

Passage of a resolution endorsing steps already taken to place the United States in a state of armed neutrality and authorizing further preparedness moves; adoption of a resolution that a state of war exists between the United States and Germany; and adoption of a declaration of war against Germany.

Senator Mitchell said there was undoubtedly sentiment in the west for taking the first of the three instead of declaring war or declaring that a state of war exists.

Other advisers of the President take the view that the best step is a declaration that a state of war exists.

They are examining precedents to map out the best course to pursue. The general expectation is that in the end the resolution adopted when the United States went to war with Mexico will be followed closely in the present situation. That resolution recited repeated acts of aggression on the part of Mexico against the United States.

The President is not expected to put his message to Congress into final shape until just before delivering it. In the meantime he will confer with Congressional leaders. He is understood to believe that because of the far-reaching effect of his message he must consider every phase. Then, too, he is considering possible events between now and the time of his appearance before Congress.

He will be ready to go before Congress at the earliest possible time after it convenes.

TRENCH BATTLE IS RAGING AT ST. QUENTIN

Driving forward north and south of St. Quentin, heart of the Hindenburg line, the Allies have cut two of the four main railroads which feed the city, while a third is well within reach of the German line. With La Fere liberated by the retreating Germans and two of its dominating forts in the hands of the French, the chief interest in the great battle which has been raging for a week on an 80-mile front shifts to historic St. Quentin.

The Germans are making desperate and bloody attempts to wrest from the French the Esignay-Dunoy plateau, from which General Nivelle's guns command the southern approaches to the city and render its position, in the opinion of military circles, one of grave peril.

Further to the south the French have forged well to the west of St. Quentin, hammering a great dent in the German line between that town and La Fere. The advance of this salient three miles further would give the French possession of the last direct railroad line between the two towns.

South of La Fere the French troops have swung in a great curve around the forest of Coucy and St. Gobain, the formidable natural barrier which lies between them and Laon, the northernmost fortress on the Hindenburg line. In the center of the curve General Nivelle has forced a wedge into the French line about 10 miles of heavily timbered country must yet be conquered before he reaches his goal.

On the northern sector of the great battle line the situation is somewhat obscure. Neither British nor German official communications throw much light on the operations here. Some progress has been made in the direction of Cambrai by General Haig, but apparently the determined resistance of the Germans had checked the British advance along the whole Arves sector.

While the issue of the Tigris struggle in France remains in doubt the stage is set for sensational possibilities in far off Mesopotamia. In the arm of the Tigris the armies are converging on the Turks in the hope of dealing a death blow to Ottoman power in its eastern empire.

The Russians are advancing from Persia, in three divisions driving the Turks before them and have already crossed the Turkish frontier at several places. To the south General Maude, conqueror of Bagdad, is pressing forward up the Tigris and Diala rivers. Outside of the possibility of a decisive victory over their encircling foes, apparently the only road of retreat open to the Turks is to the west. Here they are confronted with the desolate wastes of the great desert of El Jezireh, according to military circles, an impassable barrier. The meagerness of the official reports from London, Constantinople and Petrograd, leaves, however, considerable doubt as to the precise nature of the situation.

WEST SIDE YOUNG MEN WILL PREPARE TO FORM COMPANY

In order to be prepared enough to enlist and go to the front immediately in case war is declared, young men on the West Side are contemplating organizing a small company for drill purposes. It will not be a home guard company, nor will it go to the front in a body unless ordered, but the idea is to give the members the necessary training in the manual of arms and maneuvers, which will enable them to go into service immediately after enlisting.

The company will probably be drilled by Thomas Smith, who for a number of years saw service with the regular army. Smith was with detachments in the Northwest and also in Mexico. He is well versed in army tactics and could round the recruits into good soldiers.

The first step towards getting into condition for enlistment was an eight mile hike the prospective recruits took Sunday afternoon. Among those who will form the nucleus of the company are Thomas Smith, James Mulaney, Terry Donnelly, Sam Rowe, Hugo Mulac and Clyde Desviter.

An effort will be made to pick up more recruits for the "awkward squad," principally from the West Side but others who wish to get the army training without joining the National Guard, in order to be ready for enlistment, may join on application.

WRIGHT AND NORTON TO GO TO HARRISBURG

F. W. Wright and E. T. Norton, appointed by Governor M. G. Brumbaugh as members of the state safety committee, will leave tonight for Harrisburg. Charles Davidson, the third member, accepted the position on the board but found he was unable to attend the present meeting.

The national crisis is reflected in Connellsville these days by the spirit of patriotism which has become even inspired. Talk of war is popular with every one, and there is an intense interest in the latest news from Washington.

One of the outward signs of this arousal of patriotism is the rapidly increasing number of flags which are making their appearance. The Smith House was recently decorated with several big banners, and many other business houses are now flying flags.

These, added to the usual colors which float from the tops of downtown buildings, give the business section quite an impressive appearance. The latest flag to be erected is that of the Tri-State Candy Company, a huge piece of bunting having been hung there this morning.

Dealers selling the small flags for coat lapels are doing a large business and thousands of men are "showing their colors" by wearing these pins upon their coats.

The war fever has struck the children, of course, and in a hundred little bands of kids can be seen, playing with broomsticks or practicing salutes and other military forms.

EQUIPMENT KEPT HERE FOR 100 MEN

Preparations to mobilize quickly should orders to do so be received, are being made at the armories of companies D and E of the Tenth Regiment, where equipment is being cleaned up, separated and repaired, so that the militia could move within about 10 minutes after the mobilization orders are received.

At the local armory last evening there was no cadet drill as the officers were busy boxing up the surplus equipment getting it ready for shipping to the adjutant general. The peace strength of the companies has been increased to 100 and enough equipment for just that number was kept on hand. All the rest was shipped away.

At the armory at Mount Pleasant, the armory of Company E has gone over all equipment and arranged each man's belongings in a pile. Since the increase in peace strength to 100 there is not sufficient room for the lockers and each furniture in the library of the armory has been utilized. All visitors to the armory are closely watched and are not allowed to wander about. Captain Parsons, of the regular army, who recently visited the armory said that Company E is one of the best equipped in the state.

In Company E there are now 89 men. The officers are: James Zundell, captain; William Stevenson, first lieutenant. The second lieutenant is vacant. Fred Stillwagon having resigned since his return from the Mexican border. There are five reserves.

Following is a list of what each soldier needs, in order to be fully equipped: One hat and cord, one olive drab wool coat, one olive drab cotton coat, one pair olive drab wool trousers, two shirts, one pair leggings, one belt, two pairs of shoes, (military) have been receiving but one pair), two pair extra laces, one overcoat, two blankets, one poncho, one identification tag, one half shelter tent, (two men share a tent, each carrying half), one bacon can, one canteen can, one canteen, fork and spoon, one meat can, one haversack, one pack carrier, one first aid pouch. One man out of each squad also carries a pole, shovel, pick, wire cutter, or surplus kit bag.

VICKERMAN LOCAL OPTION BILL IS KILLED IN HOUSE

Legislators Say It Would Not Accomplish Purpose It Was Intended For.

MILITARY BILLS COME UP

Appropriations for National Guard Maintenance and Setting Aside $105,000 to Equip Mount Gretna as a Mobilization Camp Introduced.

Special to The Courier.
HARRISBURG, Mar. 27.—The Vickersman local option bill was called up in the House at 11:30 this morning. Spangler of York at once presented a resolution substituting the words "city, borough, town or township," in the bill for "county," as the voting unit. The amendment was defeated. The vote was 127 yeas, 72 nays.

Ramsey of Delaware, when the bill came to second reading, asked that the House vote against it, saying the "killing" should occur at once instead of postponing it until third reading. He said the bill would not accomplish the purpose for which it was intended.

The Tompkins bill abolishing capital punishment was passed finally today by the Senate without debate by a vote of 32 to 12.

The Senate last night passed finally the bill to increase the state constabulary by 100 men, the vote being 33 to 11. A futile attempt was made by Senator C. A. Snyder to reduce the amount of the increase in salaries proposed for the chief officers. The measure is expected to pass the House.

The bill would add 20 privates and 12 corporals to the present state police force, and provide a minimum salary of $1,020 a year with opportunity for biennial increases. There are now 180 privates and 20 corporals.

One bill passed finally in the Senate last night would provide transportation to and from Vicksburg, Miss., to surviving Civil War veterans who participated in the siege of 1863, to celebrate the peace jubilee in October, 1917.

The Tompkins bill to abolish the death penalty for murder and fix the punishment at imprisonment for life passed third reading after being amended by striking out the "solitary confinement" feature.

The Senate cleared its calendar of second and first reading bills and adjourned to meet this morning at 11 o'clock.

House bills passed finally are: To authorize county commissioners to establish lights on county bridges. To provide that pool rooms close at midnight.

To authorize third class cities to appropriate money for music in public parks and other places.

To confer constabulary powers on persons named by commissioners as road inspectors.

To provide relief for indigent war veterans.

To make the National Guard of Pennsylvania conform to the national defense act.

The House adjourned at 11:40 o'clock until Tuesday at 11 A. M.

Two bills of military importance were introduced in the House: One carries an appropriation of $1,075,000 for the support of the National Guard for two years, payment of unpaid bills and cost of horses furnished by the national government and an appropriation of $150,000 to be added to the unexpended part of the appropriation made last session for emergency use. The latter sum is reappropriated. The other reappropriates for the purpose of improving the permanent camp site at Mount Gretna $185,000 appropriated for last year, but not used because of the call of the guard to Mexican border service.

NO NEW TRIAL IN DAMAGE SUIT

Court Orders Verdict of $6,194 Against Railroad Company in Leonard Case to Stand.

Special to The Courier.
UNIONTOWN, March 27.—An opinion and order was handed down in Common Pleas Court today by Judge E. H. Reppert in which a motion for a new trial in the suit of Mrs. Victoria Leonard against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was overruled. Mrs. Leonard sued the railroad company for $25,000 damages for the death of her husband, Joseph Leonard, who was killed in the Connellsville yards after he had been ejected from a passenger train while on his way to his home at Mill Run. It was testified at the trial that Leonard was ejected from the passenger train and was struck by a westbound train as he was crossing the tracks. The jury awarded Mrs. Leonard $6,194. Judge Reppert in overruling the motion for a new trial, directed that judgment be entered in favor of the plaintiff upon payment of the jury fee.

Three orders were handed down by Judge Reppert in the suits of J. Seagriff Marshall against the county of Fayette, the city of Uniontown and the Uniontown school district in which motions of the defendants for new trials and judgment non obstante were overruled and dismissed. Mr. Marshall, formerly tax collector in Uniontown, sued the county, city and school district to recover commissions for taxes which were collected by Charles T. Chamber. The election of Mr. Chamber was contested by Mr. Marshall, the latter having been declared the tax collector by the Supreme Court. It was for commissions on taxes that the suits were brought. The cases came up for trial last October 24, and binding instructions were given in favor of the plaintiff for the following amounts: Against the county, $1,229.20; against the city, $2,395.96; against the school district, $2,489.84.

Judge Reppert wrote an opinion in the case against the school district and merely stated the orders in the other cases, the issues being the same in each case. Judgment was directed to be entered in favor of the plaintiff in each case upon payment of the jury fee.

Judge Reppert granted a divorce to Mrs. Nellie M. Scott of Keister, from James R. Scott of Royal. They were married March 28, 1911, at Cumberland. Mrs. Scott charged her husband with infidelity, naming Mary Jane Laybue as co-respondent. It was testified by witnesses that Scott has been intimate with the Laybue woman, and the docket entries of Justice of the Peace Alex R. Duncan of Dunbar were introduced as evidence in which Mary Jane Laybue charged Scott with the paternity of her child.

THREE DIE IN FIRE

Gas Leak in Hotel Causes Conflagration at Creston, W. Va.

By Associated Press.
PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 27.—Three persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Stephens Hotel and 10 other buildings at Creston, Work county, early today.

The dead are Carl and Lindsey Stephens and Mrs. Helen M. Mohl. The fire, which is believed to have been caused by a gas leak, originated in the hotel and quickly spread to adjoining buildings. The town only had limited means of fighting the flames and the fire spread quickly. Before being finally controlled the post office, three stores, a second hotel building and a number of residences had been burned.

Carl Stephens was found dead in the ruins of the hotel while Lindsey Stephens died later from burns. Mrs. Mohl expired while being brought to a hospital here. The loss was estimated at $75,000.

Forest Fire Rages

The wood stack of Isabella road was on fire yesterday afternoon, and the fire department was called to extinguish the blaze. The firemen, however, were unable to throw a stream on the fire because of its distance from the nearest plug.

WOMAN EATS LYE AND CUTS THROAT

Perry Colored Woman Tries Suicide With Blind Son at Her Side; Condition Serious.

In the presence of a blind son, Mrs. Margaret Trueman, aged 69, the only colored woman in Perryopolis, early this morning swallowed a quantity of lye and slashed her throat with an old razor. She is in the Uniontown hospital in a serious condition.

Mrs. Trueman had been despondent of late. After two of her sons had gone to bed upstairs she remained downstairs with her third son, who is blind. About 3 o'clock the blind boy heard his mother make a gasping noise and called to her. She made no answer and becoming alarmed, he called his other brothers. They found their mother on the floor with a ragged gash in her throat and a can of lye at her side. An old rusty razor was in her hand. She had eaten a considerable quantity of the caustic soda. Dr. R. P. Kamerer was summoned and he removed her to the Uniontown hospital.

Mrs. Trueman is very well known because of the fact that she is the only colored woman in Perryopolis. She had been in ill health, it is said. Her recovery is considered doubtful.

STEALS PASTOR'S GAS

Thief Phoned Can Under Parked Automobile's Tank and Opens Cock.

A unique experience was that of a Connellsville minister who drove to Uniontown in an automobile last night to attend the lecture of Dr. S. Parkes Cadman at a church there, and, on coming out of the auditorium found that much of his gasoline had been lost, evidently through a leak in the tank.

The minister decided to run the car to a nearby garage and come home on the street car. While trying to discover the leak, however, he noticed that a can had been placed under the tank, and that it was catching the gasoline as it dripped out. "Some kind of a leak," he thought, "to save me the gasoline." Close investigation brought forth, however, that the stop cock had been opened and had caused the "leak." The minister was forced reluctantly to the conclusion that someone had been stealing his "gas," and had disappeared upon his approach.

The thief had taken about a half gallon of gas and had evidently come back for more. "I put the can in my car and brought it home," said the minister today, "and figured that we were about even, since the can is worth about 15 cents."

DUNBAR WILL TAKE CENSUS OF YOUTHS WILLING TO ENLIST

Big Patriotic Meeting Called For Friday Night at Burgess' Office.

HEAR THE CALL TO ARMS

Realizing Nation's Peril and Need of Red-blooded Men of Military Age, a Meeting to Determine What Dunbar Will Do is Arranged by Citizens.

Dunbar has taken the lead in responding to the country's call for volunteers to muster the Navy up to its full strength of 37,000 men. A meeting has been called by patriotic citizens for Friday night in the Burgess' office in Knights of Pythias hall at 7:30 o'clock to determine just how many boys between the ages of 18 and 35 are willing to offer their services in the present great crisis.

The call of the country has gone out and Dunbar's red-blooded, patriotic young men will respond. The call for the meeting states that "America's life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, for which our fathers fought, died and died, are imperiled. Our people and property are imperiled. American rights must be defended. It is therefore the glorious privilege, the bounden duty of every young American to enlist for their defense."

"The object of this meeting is to consider the matter and take such action as the boys may desire. All persons between the ages of 18 and 35 years are eligible and invited to be present."

"All Civil War veterans, veterans of the Spanish-American war and citizens are urgently requested to meet with the boys and join in the discussion. Boys of Mount Braddock, Perry and other surrounding towns are requested to be present. Show your patriotism and come around on Friday night."

COMMENCEMENT LATE

Exact Date For High School Exercises Still Uncertain.

Though the exact date for the high school commencement this year has not been decided yet, it now seems certain that it will be much later than usual, and later even than the school authorities had figured upon.

Due to the infantile paralysis epidemic last summer, the Connellsville schools, as well as all others throughout Pennsylvania, got a late start, and it is a matter for the authorities at Harrisburg to decide just when the schools may be closed. Superintendent S. P. Ashe wrote to the state department not long ago to ascertain just when the children here could quit. No answer has been received as yet, but indications are, it is said, that the closing will come very late.

Notwithstanding this, preparations for commencement have already begun here.

Grandmother's Botanic Medicine. In every pioneer home the botanic recipes of our grandmothers for the treatment of disease were wonderfully dependable. Every fall she gathered her various herbs: thoroughwort, camellia, sage, pennyroyal, wormwood, rue, etc. It is interesting to note that Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, the most successful remedy for female ailments we have, was originally prepared for home use from one of these botanic recipes, and the demand for this famous medicine has grown until over 350,000 pounds of roots and herbs are used annually in its preparation. It will well repay any woman who suffers from female ills to give this famous medicine a trial.—Adv.

PLANS SUICIDE VERY CAREFULLY

Pats Handkerchief About Neck to Catch Blood and Then Shoots Himself.

Melanchoia, resulting from brooding over the safety and welfare of a brother and sister in Belgium, is thought to have caused Peter Leuchter of Mount Pleasant to end his life some time during the night or early this morning by firing a bullet through his head. Leuchter boarded at the Ruder Inn, Mount Pleasant, and his dead body was found lying across the bed between 8 and 9 o'clock this morning by a maid at the inn. He had the revolver in his hand and around his neck was a large red handkerchief which he had carefully arranged to prevent the blood from coming in contact with his clothes. He had evidently planned the suicide very carefully. A new suit of clothes was found lying beside his bed. Coroner M. W. Horner of Westmoreland county was summoned and viewed the body.

Leuchter came to Mount Pleasant from Antwerpen, Belgium, 35 years ago and was well known in that community. He was a watch maker and repairman and for some time was employed by Walter Morrison of Mount Pleasant, now deceased. He later was employed by Harry Morrison. He has not worked since last October. Failing to receive any word from his relatives in the war stricken country he became melancholy and wandered about, apparently in a dazed condition. He was unmarried.

Boy is Killed. Joseph Johns, the four-year old son of Mrs. Eliza Johns of West Conneltsville, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he fell from a milk wagon, the rear wheel passing over his abdomen, causing internal injuries. He died about 10 minutes after the accident occurred.

Young Bride Seeks Divorce. Mrs. Gertrude E. Trimmer, 19, of New Geneva, yesterday filed suit for divorce against Edward B. Trimmer, 59, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment.

WOMAN, BEDFAST 38 YEARS, DIES

Miss Margaret Minard, 55 Years Old. Passes Away at Ohio City Home On Monday.

After being confined to her bed 38 of the 55 years of her life, Miss Margaret Minard died yesterday morning at her home in Ohio City. During the long years, that she was unable to get about, she occupied her time with fancy work and produced many beautiful pieces. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock from the family residence. The body will be taken overland to Hopwood for interment. The funeral party will go by train.

Mrs. Minard leaves three sisters, Mrs. Ida Anderson of Rochester, Pa., Mrs. Gertel and Mrs. Miller of Uniontown, and a brother, David Minard of Iowa, who was visiting his sister at the time of her death.

ROBERT LUNNEN. The body of Robert Lunnene arrived here this morning from Derry and was removed by Funeral Director J. L. Stader to the First Methodist Episcopal Church where services were conducted by Rev. G. L. C. Richardson, the pastor. Interment in Hill Grove cemetery. Mr. Lunnene, who formerly resided in Conneltsville, died Saturday night on a Pennsylvania train while he was being removed to his home at Derry. Young Lunnene had been at Mount Alto for medical treatment and when his condition became worse he expressed a desire to be back home. His brothers started with him, against the advice of a physician, and he died in their arms just as the train was leaving Mount Union. Several years ago he suffered the loss of his left arm to the shoulder when he was run down in the West Side by a Pennsylvania railroad train and it is thought that the amputation of the arm caused his late illness to develop.

JOHN LAMPART. John Lampart, four years old, died last night at 10:30 o'clock at his home at Davidson following a brief illness of diphtheria. Funeral this afternoon with interment in St. John's

Slavish cemetery.

PETER NEZZADA. Peter Nezzada, 62 years old, died yesterday at his home at Trotter. The body was removed to Funeral Director J. L. Stader's parlors.

PLAYGROUNDS CONCERT

Large Audience Hears Welsh Singers at Colonial.

The Royal Gwent Welsh Male Singers gave a concert last evening in the Colonial Theatre for the benefit of the Playgrounds Association. The audience was large and representative, and the choir's numbers were all favorably received.

At the beginning of the second part of the program the Welshmen sang "The Star Spangled Banner," while the audience rose, and at the close everyone in the theatre joined in singing "America." Great applause followed each of the national songs. The rest of the program was of a varied nature, several of the numbers being sung in the native Welsh tongue. The house was quite full, and it seems certain that a nice sum was realized for the playgrounds. The Colonial was seen, for the first time by an audience, with several changes made necessary by the requirements of the state law, chairs at the end of each row having been removed in order to make the aisles wider.

GARDENERS AS PATRIOTS.

If war comes everybody cannot serve at the front but we can do other things no less patriotic and needful. No matter how large an army it may be necessary to place in the field, a still larger army must remain at home whose soldiers will have a duty to perform no less important than have those who will brave the dangers of the battlefield.

This home army will be the army of gardeners. Many of its recruits will be new to the service but if they catch the spirit of the time they will cheerfully and willingly bear their part.

"It is the patriotic duty of every city boy, girl and woman," says Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, "to transform his or her yard or some nearby vacant lot, into a garden, each square foot of which will grow two or possibly three crops during the coming summer. The average small farmer and his family owe it to their country, as well as to themselves, to raise at least 100 chickens, to keep one cow or more and at least enough logs for home consumption. Larger farmers should also diversify their crops so each section of the country will produce what and all that it may need without depending upon other sections."

In case of war this close attention to the business of gardening and farming will be necessary in order to provision the troops in the field and to supply the increasing needs of the civilians. In the happier contingency of escaping war, which is the ardent wish of all of us, the activities of the army of gardeners and farmers should not abate. Increased production will form the most important factor in a reduction of the high cost of living and every tiller of the soil, no matter how small may be the scale of his or her operations, will contribute proportionately to a solution of this burdensome problem.

THE CALL TO YOUNG MEN.

In the executive order to recruit the navy and marine corps to maximum war strength there is a call to young men who would serve in the first line of their country's defense.

If war with Germany ensues these arms of the service will have an important duty to perform. Even if we are obliged to do no more than to make effective preparation against the possibility of war the navy and the marine corps will still offer interesting fields for the activities of red-blooded Americans.

In either event young men are needed and those who feel the thrill of national pride and an inspiration to patriotic duty will find in either of these services an opportunity to show that they appreciate and will respond to their country's call.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN.

It is an encouraging and hopeful sign of an awakening among our legislators to note the attitude of Speaker Baldwin of the House of Representatives on the subject of economy in public expenditures.

He has given notice that he will not stand for an increase in the revenues of the state through new forms of taxation without proper economy in expenditures is first shown. He declares that he will make a fight on the new tax measures until assured that the money now being appropriated is properly used.

The people will applaud this stand, and they indulge the hope that other legislators will as clearly comprehend the needs of the hour and support the courageous Speaker in his demands.

A practical test of citizenship is being imposed by a judge of the United States District Court in St. Louis, who refuses naturalization papers to applicants who are unwilling to fight for America in case it becomes necessary. It must be understood that there is no hypocrisy in patriotism, at least not in American patriotism.

The state Senate showed its appreciation of the value and service of the State Constabulary by passing by a vote of 25 to 11 a bill to increase both the size and the pay of the force.

The foreign service veterans, even if many of them are wearing the army age limit, are again feeling the thrill of the spirit of '28.

That church census may develop some surprises. More people may be found to attend church than many persons suspect.

At first thought it would appear that the movement people are making against their own interests in opposing the bill before the Legislature prohibiting children from attending public entertainments unless accompanied by a parent. Why not simply put on a line of attractions that will draw both old and young and thus double up the patronage?

Was the deportation and imprisonment of Ambassador Lusk, the patriot's representative of Belgium, a challenge of Germany to still another of the Powers?

The proposed 'war of the Russia' is reported to be spending his time in prison, 'ghosting' snow, which he heartily enjoys. Some of his former associates among the crowned heads of Europe, who are busy shoveling trouble, no doubt would not object to an exchange of jobs with Nicholas.

A Distinctive and Complex Business.

No problem in modern industry is more interesting or more difficult than that of producing, transporting and distributing NATURAL GAS.

It requires the utmost skill and resource of highly specialized mining, vast expenditure and experienced engineering in the construction and maintenance of great transportation companies which deliver the product finally to the consumer in the form of heat service.

This complex problem cannot be solved by any fixed rules of mining, transportation or merchandising.

The NATURAL GAS business stands out by itself as a science, a profession and a commercial industry all rolled into one.

It is a Public Utility subject to State control and regulation.

It is at the mercy of nature for its supply of finished product—its plant and equipment liable to be crippled, shut down or rendered useless at any time by the caprice of natural forces unforeseen and uncontrollable.

It is so sensitive and so quickly responsive to public demand that a drop in temperature to the most severe rigors of winter is met instantly, up to the very limit of its capacity to serve.

It is not permitted, as are other fuels, to adjust the demand to the supply by fluctuating prices in cold weather, or when abnormal conditions prevail—it must stand ready to serve in any quantity desired at any moment for any purpose, and at a fixed price.

It cannot regulate or limit the amount of gas any customer may take or the time at which delivery shall be made.

Its capacity and its price are prescribed by the laws of business and the State, but NOTHING CAN EXERCISE CONTROL OVER THE DEMAND which may be made upon its service.

Whenever called upon to do so, it is expected to give, and does give all it has in response to public needs.

Whenever a natural gas fire is lighted in a factory or home, the service it gives is the result of the combined efforts of a great many enterprising, resourceful, skillful, and experienced men.

Competency in the field, competency in finance, competency in engineering, competency in public utility service—all are necessary to deliver this wonderful fuel to the market.

The history of the Natural Gas industry of the United States is an appalling record of incredible waste. This is largely due to the fact that the selling prices for Natural Gas have been so low as not to warrant the expenditures necessary for conserving the supply.

The average price of artificial gas in the United States is over 85¢ per thousand cubic feet.

NATURAL GAS, on a heating value basis, volume for volume, is worth 50 per cent more than artificial gas.

"The only wise way for Cities to do is to allow Natural Gas Companies sufficient price so they can afford to prospect for, buy and hold gas territory for the present and future use.

"A great many Cities have tried to lower the gas rates when as a matter of fact, they should have been increased to insure the highest efficiency and to prolong the service for years.

"Whatever may be the opinion of the general public in the matter, it is a fact that the rates charged by public utility corporations for Natural Gas in this country are, in most cases, too low rather than too high, and that the most efficient regulation can be successfully accomplished only by raising rates to such a point that consumers will not waste gas." THE SERMON.

The sermon is a bomb, aggressive missile which is aimed at the heads of people who are not present in the congregation.

The habit of sermonizing was brought to this country from England in the 16th century, along with a new brand of conscience and some antique furniture which is still on sale. The most deadly and unrelenting form of sermonizing was introduced upon the American people by the Puritans, who came up in the 17th century, and landed as long as the hour glass could stand it. It must have been a terrifying sight to a 17th century Puritan minister to watch the hour glass at the morning service and count the number of times it was turned and for one while the minister delivered a sermon with the smooth, sliding motion of a roller coaster. In those days the sermon which lasted at 2:00 A. M. and was finished before 3 o'clock in the P. M. of the same day was considered a total failure, and a still more for a new preacher was immediately instituted.

The modern sermon does not cover as much ground as the 17th century sermon, which was out in colonial days, which teaches us that we should know when we have had enough. It is a lamentable fact, however, that a very great number of ministers today have a very real tendency to begin to yawn like an army tent after the house pastor has preached for 15 minutes and sit in a sea of doubt, unable to move without any back for two hours and a half, while some evangelist rises up the community from folks to collar button and never notices the flight of time or size of the clock in his back. Most people would rather listen to a super-heated evangelist raise blisters on the hides of the members of the church than attend the evening service and listen to a sermon which means nothing to them.

The missionary sermon is an effort to make people believe when they know it is coming. It has a sublime mission, which is to extract money from people who would rather spend it for new coat-of-arms. It requires some courage to preach one of these sermons, but probably no more than is required to live on the average pastor's salary.

CHANGE OF WORK.

We do the same things, day by day; and now and then we live and say, "Oh, dear, for something else to do, something other calling to pursue." Sometimes I think I'd like to try the doctor's job and help folks die. Alas! I see the banker stand with untold wealth in either hand, and wish that I might have his task, and on a pile of greenbacks back. When I behold the merchant prince, I feel the soul within me when it's hard to think that I must strive at a scale which to keep alive, while he with a swift eye of trade, wears every brand of wealth he made. But when I walk around the block, and meet the road old fellow, I notice that he has the same old, as old as any in the crowd. The banker's hair, above the ears, is white, although he's young in years; his face is drawn with lagged lines, as though he worries and repines. The merchant prince has said to me he never is from trouble free, and often with a swift eye, the whole night long he'll walk the floor. So, perchance, and maybe, I'm after all a lucky chap.

For Spring and Summer Let Us Show You

what we have in shoe stocks. Let us show you what we have for women, for men; let us show you what we have for misses and boys. Hear our prices, see the styles and workmanship of the shoes, remember the great wearing qualities of the shoes you have been buying from us for years, and be assured that what we are selling now will give you equally as good satisfaction. Shoes are higher—that we admit, and the price may still advance to a higher point. Yet, notwithstanding all these facts we are today selling our better grades of footwear for men and women, for misses and boys, at more reasonable prices than any opposition in the section in which we operate. The proof of the pudding is eating it, and so to prove this statement we recommend that you buy your shoes here and try it. There are thousands of men and women who have been supplying themselves and their families from our shoe departments for years. They continue season after season, year after year, to come direct to our stores for their supplies, never giving any place else a thought, and it is because they are getting good values, they are getting good results, they are getting goods of the styles that they want, and they get all the accommodations they want. Just now our shoe departments are stocked fully. We cannot describe or give the specifications on every pair, or every different line, but enough to say we have a very good, strong line of women's shoes, running as high as $7.00 per pair, and that's about high enough. Men's line likewise—dress shoes up to $7.00, and down to $2.00. The misses' and boys' lines are complete and extensive, prices reasonable. We have a very strong line of working shoes for men. There seems to be a continuation of the shortage of leather; many manufacturers predict that shoe prices are going much higher. It is all a lottery; hard to tell, hard even to guess, but for the present time we have abundant stock to supply your needs at slight advances in price over last season. Therefore for your spring and summer supplies, let us show you our lines.

SCOTSDALE, March 27.—Charles Eberhart, who makes his home with his grandfather, Kramer Eberhart, left yesterday afternoon to join his regiment in Delaware. After the Tenth Regiment had been sent from Mount Gretna to the border all of the boys from around here who enlisted, did so in Greensburg. Eberhart went to Greensburg and enlisted and was sent from the recruiting station to Fort DuPont, Delaware. He was assigned to a Delaware regiment. Yesterday a telegram came to him that he was to report at Fort DuPont. Eberhart has been working for the Union Supply company at their store at Standard, near Mount Pleasant. The Delaware regiment, it is understood, was called out to guard the ammunition plants. It is the first duty that Eberhart has ever been called upon to do and he was eager to join his command.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back Its Color and Lustre With Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

MORE RHEUMATISM THAN EVER BEFORE

Clergymen, Lawyers, Brokers, Merchants and Merchants Stricken.
Our old friend Rheumatism is having his latest year, and a few words of caution from one who knows all about it may not be amiss.

Wear rubbers in damp weather; keep your feet dry; drink plenty of lemonade, and avoid strong alcoholic drinks.
If rheumatism gets you, or scalds, and you have sharp twinges, gnawing pain or swollen joints or muscles, you can get rid of all agony in just a few days by taking one-half teaspoonful of Rheuma once a day.

All druggists know about Rheuma; it's harmless, yet powerful; cheap, yet sure, and a 50-cent bottle will last a long time. Ask A. A. Clarke or any druggist.—Adv.

Free Treatment (Medicines and Mechano-Therapy Excepted) to the First Few Sick People Starting Dr. Mackenzie's Treatment at the Yough House Next Wednesday—Here Every Wednesday, But This Offer is Good Only On Next Visit. Made to Quickly Prove His Successful Methods.

DR. MACKENZIE, PITTSBURGH SPECIALIST

For years Dr. Mackenzie has successfully practiced his profession of curing all chronic nervous, complicated and special diseases of men, women and children; therefore, experience used in Germany and America, together with the necessary appliances, is the reason of his success and why he is successful in curing complicated and special diseases, when other forms of treatment have failed.

The treatment used by the doctor are as follows:

DR. MACKENZIE

The wonderful direct treatments such as serums, bacterins, anti-toxins and intravenous medication. This includes the latest successful German treatment, which has cured in one treatment many cases of years' standing which had absolutely failed to find a cure in other forms of treatment. The doctor also uses the famous German discovery, the by-chemie treatment, famous for its many cures when applied in such cases, where the chemical constituents of the body are lacking.

The now combined treatment together with specially prepared medicine to suit each individual case has cured some of the worst forms of chronic, nervous, complicated and special diseases, such as asthma, bronchitis, stomach and liver troubles, chronic headaches, kidney and bladder troubles, and eye trouble. This form of treatment is also successful in all forms of nervousness, such as nervous prostration, neurasthenia, corea, insomnia and it is the ideal treatment for weak, nervous women, restoring normal functions and brings happiness to the home.

Regarding the proper application of Mechano-Therapy, it is hardly necessary to explain the advantages of this treatment and it is well established and of so much importance that every man or woman knows its importance when applied in connection with other forms of treatment.

By a careful consideration of the above, you can readily see the importance of the various forms of treatment and how essential and necessary it is, not only for the physician, but for the patient, to give the sufferer the proper treatment or treatments required, but it is just as important for the sufferer to know where such treatments can be obtained and to take advantage of them.

The special offer of charges for medicines and electricity to a few sick people is limited to Dr. Mackenzie's visit here next Wednesday, so be sure you call at that time.

The bride and groom of today realize that however little furniture they may need with which to start housekeeping, they "want that little long." Our furniture has that old-time knack of lasting and of being so designed as not to go out of fashion.

You don't expect to buy furniture every day, and therefore when you do buy, you are entitled to goods that you can use every day for a long time. CHAPTER I.

Midst the Hills of Judea.

THE setting sun, disappearing over the western hills toward the distant Mediterranean, cast lengthening shadows from the great pine trees which sheltered the rocky way in the garden wall. Far off in the distance a single trumpet sounded, faint and indistinct. A nearer trumpet echoed and re-echoed the sound. A shepherd hidden in a nearby valley took up the silvery notes upon his own instrument and sounded the tidings that the day was over.

Upon the silken cupped roof of the house of Jesse, of the tribe of Judah, a maiden sat embroidering a girdle. She was fair and slender, with brownish hair, which hung in two long braids across her shoulders. But, while she plied her needle industriously and seemed devoted to her task, she ever and anon shaded her eyes to gaze what fully out over the horizon. Far in the distance the sheep were peacefully grazing upon the hillside, even now being herded together by the watchful shepherds and their dogs in preparation for the coming of the night. To the east and to the west the mountain cast her eyes in vain, for what she saw satisfied her not. To the north lay Hebron, the ancient city where the great King David had first reigned, and beyond that—somewhere to the north, so the maiden had heard—was it great and wondrous city of beautiful buildings, great palaces, rich caravans and fashionably dressed folk—Jerusalem. But of all this the maiden knew naught and had no desire to learn. With a sigh she resumed her work upon the girdle. The house of Jesse all was excitement, for the morning was the hallowed day when some night labor in the fields. The trumpets called the men from the fields and the women from their labors to prepare for the evening meal which should precede the approaching festival. In the courtyard by the wall the faithful Huldah, who had been in service as handmaiden to Huldah, wife of Jesse, these many years, gathered up the clean linen which had been washed by two girls kneading the garments with their clean feet in a trough of water. Nearer the house the women glancing at their labors and were gathering up the grain.

A trumpet blew again—nearer. A shepherd was belching in part of his flock. Languidly the girl, watching from the roof, ran down the great flight of stone steps which led to the courtyard and approached the newcomer.

"Sheilah!" cried the girl anxiously. "Hast thou seen Jether?"

"The shepherd, an aged man with a young lamb nestled tenderly in his arms, shook his head sadly. "Nay, Mistress Naomi," responded Sheilah, laying the lambkin upon the grass by the wall and signifying that Huldah should wash its feet. "Nay, Jether was not upon the hills last night. I found his flock untended. For the second day Jether hath not led them to water, and none knows where the lad may be. Some of the sheep the wolves have slain and others, like this poor lambkin, hath suffered because of his neglect."

"The girl clasped her hands together nervously. "But what of Jether?" she inquired tensely. "Can he be ill or sick?" "He should not have left the flock untended," said Sheilah sternly. "Nay, he was not ill."

"Oh, can such have happened to him?" Sheilah, last night I dreamed he was in fearful peril, but of what I know not." Naomi, with an agonized sob which she vainly sought to suppress, seated herself on the stone edge of the well and watched Huldah as she bound up the broken leg of the lambkin.

Sheilah chuckled significantly. "Have no fear, good mistress Naomi," he commented wisely. "His worst danger lies in his father's wrath."

"What meanest thou?" cried Naomi quickly.

"On the road hither I met Ozen of Hebron, he who keeps an inn there, and Ozen told me Jether was there all night with a companion, Tola, an evil man whom all know well and far too well to think of him," chuckled the elderly shepherd, pleased with his own heavy wit.

"The young girl came to him anxiously and touched his arm.

"Sheilah," she said softly, so that none might hear, "thou wilt not say aught to mine uncle against Jether?"

"The shepherd lifted his hand as if in protest.

"Nay, he did great wrong to leave the flock alone while he drank through the night with 'Tola and his friends,'" he answered. "For a young man like Master Jether to neglect home, his flock, his duties to his father and to his elder brother, Gaal, who some day will be master here, is not right. I know full well the lad is headstrong, impetuous, but he should fear the wrath of his father if he continues in his evil ways."

"The girl glanced about her nervously as one by one the laborers from the field, the tillers of the soil, the shepherds and their dogs passed into the courtyard and the sun sank lower upon the horizon.

"Please, Sheilah, thou wilt not say aught to mine uncle against Jether. He has forgotten that at sundown we celebrate the hallowed day. Hasten, I beg of thee."

"The stolid shepherd shook his head sternly. A trumpet blew in the distance.

"Do not the trumpets sound on every hill? Do they not bid all come from toil and resten home to cleanse themselves before they make of the holy man? Hasten! Do not the trumpets sound in Hebron? If Master Jether will to come he'll come. Nay, nay, good mistress Naomi, I cannot speak to Jether louder with mine own voice than can these trumpets which sound from every hillside. Give me the lambkin, good Huldah. I will care for it henceforth."

"The shepherd tenderly took the lamb in his arms and, followed by the dogs, which he had about his neck joyously, went into the sheepfold. Huldah put her arms tenderly about the young girl and sought to comfort her.

"Were it not best that I should leave water in Master Jether's room and lay out fresh garments for him?" she inquired. "He may come with little time to spare."

"Oh, yes, Huldah! But what if he should not come?" replied Naomi, tearfully. "Suppose that he should not come? There are many wolves in these hills of Judea, and once I know that Jether killed a lion on foot, with but a knife as his only weapon. Suppose that last night when he called to watch the sheep some evil mayhap befell him? Oh, Huldah, I shudder when I think that Jether may never return to us!"

"The older woman smiled reassuringly and caressed the young girl.

"I know thy secret, Mistress Naomi," she whispered. "Nay, do not start in surprise. Jether is a fine lad, beloved of the entire countryside, and not a maiden of Hebron but would be honored to have her hand sought in marriage by the younger son of Jesse. And thou art a beautiful girl, who must win the love of all who know thee. Yet one thing doth trouble me much, Mistress Naomi."

"The girl half dried her tears and turned curiously.

"What dost thou mean?"

"The aged servant hesitated, as if fearing to speak.

"Say on, Huldah. What hast thou in thy mind?"

"Much talk I have heard these past few months among the servants in thy uncle's household," said Huldah softly, glancing around to make sure that none might hear, "much talk have I

TOLA, FRIEND OF JETHER.
 "Thy father is rich. Demand thou thy portion and go forth."

watch the road for the coming of Master Jether. Come, Mistress Naomi!"

Together the two women slowly climbed the stone steps, passed under the silken drape, mounted to the top of the rounded dome, where, from a small platform, one could see the countryside for miles around.

"Another goblet of wine to seal anew our friendship!"

The speaker, a man of middle age, well dressed, with a handsomely embroidered tunic of a rich dark cloth bound with a leathern girdle and wearing costly sandals embroidered with beads, seemed in striking contrast to the lad who faced him in the hazy courtyard of the inn of Ozen, on the outskirts of the town of Hebron. They were seated at a rough wooden table in the courtyard of a plain, square building, the open sky above them showing that nightfall was not far distant. The elder man seemed trying to convey to his companion some of the good spirit which evidently permeated his own veins.

The lad, a handsome dark boy with long curly hair, clad only in a rough but picturesque garment made from two leopard skins, shook his head as his companion offered to fill his goblet a second time.

"Nay, I'll drink no more," said the boy.

The elderly man laughed, a wicked and sardonic laugh.

"And how often have I taken those selfsame words," he cried mockingly. "But to eat without drinking is like devouring one's own blood. Come, come, my good Jether, thou art a foolish boy to spend thy days, thus moping away with thy sorrows. I had thought thee a bright, industrious, care-free lad, for surely thou hast proved thyself a loyal good friend and an entertaining companion. Another goblet, my Jether, art we part?"

The boy arose somewhat unsteadily. Lures of dissipation showed under his eyes. It was apparent that sleep and he had been strangers for hours.

"I'll drink no more," he cried petulantly. "For a day and a night have I spent my time with thee, Tola, and thou hast been a good friend and hast taught me many things and told me much of that wonderful city where some day I may journey. But I must go hence now. Too long have I neglected my flock."

Tola laughed, an evil smile lighting his face as he drained the goblet.

"Thy flock?" he cried. "Wherefore shouldst a likely lad like thee tend sheep upon the hillside? Thou art a fool! Let clumsy goatherds and country louts spend weary days and dreary nights guarding thy flocks. Thou art the son of a rich man, Jether. From Ozen, the landlord, I did hear but yesterday that some day when thou dost inherit thy portion thou wilt have much gold and lands and many cattle. Why, with the wealth that will some day be thine, thou canst go to the court of Solomon—perchance become a prince thyself—thou canst live like a king in Jerusalem."

Jether's eyes lighted with anticipation, but in a moment his face became downcast.

"Aye, that may be," he responded slowly, "when I inherit my portion."

Tola rose, came closer to the boy and took him by the arm.

"Thy father is aged, Jether," he said slowly. "Perchance—"

The boy turned upon him quickly.

"Speak not of my father, Tola!" he cried angrily. "When it is the will of God that he shall be taken from us then mayst thou speak thus, not before."

Tola shrugged his shoulders in silent and humble acquiescence.

"I meant no harm, good Jether," he protested indignantly. "I did but express my regret that such a likely lad as thou couldst not enjoy in his youth the gold which perchance will be his later in life, when once best years have been wasted. Look at me. When but a lad I left my father's home, near these very hills of Hebron, and journeyed to Jerusalem, to Joppa, to Babylon itself. Nay, it seems but yesterday I stood in the streets of Jerusalem and watched the workmen rearing a great mass of stone and wood which men do say the great King Solomon plans as a temple to the Lord. Come thou and see likewise, good Jether, what wonders there are in this great world. Leave thy stupid hills and come to Jerusalem. Tact upon my journey tomorrow."

"To Jerusalem!" the boy cried incredulously. "But my father will never give his consent!"

"Ay, then without it," replied Tola sarcastically. "Thy father is rich. Demand thou thy portion and go forth. Who knows what fortune may befall thee? The great King David was but a shepherd lad amid these very hills."

"But if my father doth refuse?"

"When my father failed to find me what I deemed my right I found a way to take them," cried Tola angrily, grasping the boy again by the arm.

"And since he had put me to so much unjust trouble I took all that I found."

Jether backed away from him in surprise and fear.

"Then thou wilt some day suffer punishment for that theft," he said. "Does not our law say—"

Tola interrupted him with a mocking laugh.

"He not thieve? That is the only law I warn thee to obey when thou dost meet my friends in Jerusalem. They are merry fellows, rich and free with youth and spirits. And when I shall take thee to the house of my good friend Nadina and shall introduce you to her daughter, Tisha, the fairest in all Jerusalem, shouldst thou preach to them they would never forgive me for bringing thee along. As for Tisha, I really think she might sin thy face."

Jether turned toward him curiously and asked:

"Tisha, dost thou say?"

The Doctor Told B. & O. Fireman to Use Nerv-Worth

Sufferer's Mother Reports the Wonderful Results.

The following signed statement, given by Mrs. Ella Hess of 217 Liberty avenue, Fairmont, W. Va., is one of the most remarkable bits of praise ever given to a medicine. It is a message to sufferers that should be carefully read.

MACCABEE QUINTET LOSES GAME TO MT. PLEASANT TOSSERS

Game Starts With Lots of Pep
But Locals Are Outplayed in Last Period.

LOCAL GUARDS ARE GOOD

Struble, Who Has Been Out of Lineup
For Some Time, Stops Many Plays, and Miller Develops Lots of Speed on Regulation Floor. Score 32-23.

The Mount Pleasant inter-county league basketball team last night defeated the Maccabee team of this place on the Mount Pleasant floor by a score of 42-23. The game was interesting from the beginning and although Mount Pleasant won by a large score they had a tough proposition in the locals.

The game started off fast and in the first half was excitingly close, being tied twice and never more than one basket separating the teams. Towards the end of the second half, Bowes became ill and could not keep up his fast pace. The half ended 22-13 for Mount Pleasant.

In the next period Mount Pleasant retained the lead and played a closer guarding game, with a result that the locals did not score frequently. Struble, who has not appeared in the Maccabee lineup for some time, played his guard position in great shape, stopping most every toss that went down the floor towards Mount Pleasant's basket. Miller, jumping center for the Maccabees, showed up fine on the regulation floor. Miller is fast and with his strength and speed he would take the ball the entire length of the floor for a basket. Leo, for Mount Pleasant, was the heavy score man on that team, getting seven baskets.

After the game was over a dance was held on the armory floor. The cage is arranged so that it can be drawn up by ropes and lowered when needed. The lineup:

MT. PLEASANT: Maccabees, Davis, forward; Brown, forward; Moorehead, forward; Bishop, forward; Snyder, center; Miller, center; Snyder, guard; Bowes, guard; Carbaugh, guard; Struble, guard.

Field goals—Lee 7, Miller 1, Bishop, Snyder, Moorehead 3, Crosby 2, Davis, Henry, Bowes. Free goals—Brown 6 out of 15; Snyder 10 out of 12. Substitutions—Crosby for Moorehead; Bobbs for Snyder; Henry for Bishop; Bishop for Miller; Miller for Bowes. Referee—Wall.

TWO GAMES TONIGHT

League Games and Special Contest
Have Been Arranged.

A specially arranged game and a league game are scheduled for tonight at the Maccabee hall. The Elks and Broad Ford teams of the city league are to play and the Baltimore & Ohio city league team will play the Point Marion high school team. The preliminary will be played between two girls teams. The Conlan girls and South Conneltsville are scheduled.

The Baltimore & Ohio team was defeated by Point Marion on that team's floor, last week and the Point Marion five defeated the Penns. The game will be a good one.

There are only two more games scheduled after tonight's contest. After these games are played the basketball season for Conneltsville will be practically ended. The season is already well advanced and the evenings are almost too warm to play the remaining league games.
